for having had the welfare of this country at heart, once paid this compliment to the work of the Churches in Lesotho: "Among all the nations which I have known, none has had so much assistance from the Church as Lesotho."

To conclude, I must appeal to all people who live in Lesotho to pray hard to God for the orderly conduct of affairs in Lesotho. The need is more urgent in the present transitional period when Africa is in a state of unrest, when the Big Powers are at loggerheads and would wish to use the small ones as pawns, when the Church of Christ is being persecuted and despised. We should pray for World Peace and the spread of Christian Teaching throughout the world and above all for Lesotho to succeed in directing all her affairs towards the greater Honour and Glory of God.
