

Over and above all this, I need hardly say that Government has come to our rescue by warding off the starkest famine by providing those in need with nutritious food -- mealie-meal, canned beef, fish-oil.

Yet another remarkable achievement which must be marked up to the credit of Government is the manner in which farmers have been assisted and protected, as well as Headmen in their rights; indeed, it is Government's dearest ambition to ensure that all, without discrimination, should have their human rights safeguarded.
